

Done for a loan of Thirty Thousand Dollars, for which Enclosure Bonds will be issued payable in seven years, with interest at nine per cent per annum, will be required at the Finance Office until the 15th day of August. Bids for the whole loan or any part thereof will be received, but no bid less than par will be accepted, and the highest bid deemed advantageous to the Government will be taken.

2. Mort Serrin,
Minister of Finance.

Finance Office, Aug. 5th, 1872.

It is known to all whom it may concern, that Governor S. B. King, Esquire, having this day presented his Commission from His Excellency the President of the United States, which is found to be in due form, he is hereby acknowledged as Governor of the Republic of Hawaii, and all his official acts as such are hereby received full faith and credit by the authorities of His Majesty's Government.

Given under my hand and the Seal of the For-
[S.] sign Office at Honolulu this 24th day of August, A. D. 1872.

(Signed) CHAS. C. HARRIS,
Minister for Foreign Affairs.

By the Board of Health.—The Regulations of the Board of Health, dated July 1st and 6th, prohibiting travel between the Islands of Oahu and Maui and the other Islands of this Kingdom, are hereby re-announced from and after Tuesday, July 29, 1872.

By order of the Board of Health.

provision, that said factories at the time of their erection, should be of sufficient capacity to manufacture and consume all the wool and cotton produced in the Kingdom; it also extends the time to July, 1876. It will be remembered that the original Act provides a bonus of $6000 to be paid to whoever shall establish such factory or factories, and as now amended their capacity to manufacture is not limited to any given amount. There is some reason to believe that, under the amendment, persons may be found who will inaugurate an industry of this kind.

Section 246 of the Civil Code provided that any person setting a confined animal at liberty in order to trespass, ac, should be fined not less than one hundred dollars. This penalty was so severe that the Section had become practically inoperative. It is restored to force by the lighter and discretionary penalty affixed.

The Act relating to contracts made under Section 1417 between masters and servants, introduces an entire change in the practice hitherto prevailing. Hereafter every contract, in order to be valid, must be acknowledged by the parties thereto before an agent of the Government, one or more of whom is to be appointed in every election district by the Minister of Interior. The form of the acknowledgment is given in the law, by which it is made the duty of the agent to be personally or satisfactorily cognizant of the parties to the contract, and that it shall be read and explained to them, so that they shall understand the same, and acknowledge that it has been voluntarily signed. The Government Agent shall then cause the advance money to be paid into the hand of the servant, and shall also keep a record of the names and residences of the parties, the date and time of the contract, the amount of the advance paid and the wages stipulated for. For this service he shall be entitled to a fee of fifty cents on each copy of the master's contract, while no fee is to be charged on the servant's copy. No fees paid by the master to any agent, runner or middle-man, shall be charged to the servant, or be in any way deducted from his wages. The contract is also made prima facie evidence of the agreement against any party thereto whose identity has been established.

From the New Zealand and Melbourne papers we receive information of the introduction of the small pox into Auckland and Melbourne, which is supposed to have been introduced by the Nebraska on the same trip that she is charged to have introduced the disease here. Several deaths had occurred in New Zealand before the Nevada left on her return trip and several cases were under treatment, the result of which was somewhat doubtful. In Melbourne cases had occurred which were supposed to have been introduced by the infected passengers from the Nebraska who were bound to that port.

In the case of New Zealand the introduction of this terrible disease for the first time is looked upon—and justly too—as most dangerous, particularly to the native population, none of whom are protected against it by vaccination and whom it is impossible to protect before the disease will have made ravages only paralleled by its ravages upon its first appearance on these Islands. This being considered, the culpability of those who carried the disease to that country, through ignorance it may be, though a most culpable ignorance, or hid their knowledge of the disease for the purpose of avoiding quarantine and subjecting themselves to delay, should be severely criticised if not punished. Hundreds if not thousands of innocent people may suffer for their ignorance and they should not go free, neither from blame or punishment if it is possible to award them.

Fortunately for us, former experience, prompt and energetic action and the means which are providently kept at hand have saved the population, so far, from great loss and it is hoped that the disease is circumscribed and will be kept within narrow limits.

American Correspondence.

THE PEACE JUBILEE SECOND LETTER.

Boston, July 6, 1872.

The former letter ended with mention of the opening performances of the first day of the Festival. A summary account of the leading features and incidents that followed is all that can be given. Each day of the first week was devoted to some one of the leading nations of the world. The first being the American day, was distinguished by the predominance of our own national airs, in which the Washington Marine Band made their appearance. Never before has the Star Spangled Banner been rendered as it was this day. A portion was sung as a solo by Mrs. West, and to great effect to the refrain all resources were combined—the great chorus, the organ of mighty sound, the two thousand instruments, with artillery accompaniment, and the chiming of the city bells. The effect was magnificent, and roused the audience to high enthusiasm. Another marked sensation was the appearance of the famous Strauss, of Vienna, whose admired waltzes have made his name familiar wherever springing music is loved. The first sign of his coming is the cheering, which commences far back among the chorus. The wave of applause rolls in with increasing volume as he advances down the broad aisle, until he stands upon the conductor's platform, when audience and performers unite in demonstrations of welcome. He is a man of about forty years, with black hair, a pleasant countenance and very graceful bearing. A violin is handed him, the bow of which he uses as a baton. It is worth while to see him conduct an orchestra, in order to know what a leader can be and do. He seems at once to inspire the whole body with his own life. It is as if a magnetic influence streamed from him to every performer. He himself overflows with spirit. From head to foot, every part of his body is in action, and at brief intervals his own instrument is brought into requisition to give effect to the finer passages. It was a great achievement, too, securing the presence of the most famous orchestral leader in Europe. His appearance has been one of the most attractive features of the performances.

The rendering of the "Anvil Chorus" has proved very pleasing to the multitude, although it has afforded matter for ridicule and sarcastic comments from the critics. Two hundred fifteen men in uniform of red shirts, march forward with military precision, and take their places each with hammer in hand before the anvil. Diligent practice has enabled them to perform their part with commendable accuracy, and the ring of the hammers falls in with the strains from instruments and voices in pleasing concord.

Two great occurrences marked Tuesday, the "English Day." One was the welcome given to the Band of the Grenadier Guards. They were regarded as the representatives of the British people, and their attendance upon this Peace Festival especially seemed to be taken as a token of friendship. As the bear-skin caps and scarlet coats appeared from the far away entrance, a burst of applause greeted them. After exhibiting their skill in several compositions, "God Save the Queen" was given by the combined singers and instruments, Madam Rudersdorf performing the solo part. It was exceedingly unfortunate that a partial failure took place here, owing to some confusion produced by the organ, but it led to a pleasant episode, for Gilmore, stepping down from the stand, handed the baton to Godfrey, leader of the English Band. He took things in hand energetically, and having led his own musicians through the air, gave the signal to the great multitude of performers. Then the singers lifted up their voices, the organ roared, the cannon thundered, and there was given such a majestic invocation of blessing upon Her British Majesty as might have reached the skies. The audience signified their sympathy by tumultuous applause, which seemed to suggest to our visitors the propriety of acknowledging the compliment. Suddenly and most unexpectedly, the strains of the "Star Spangled Banner" were heard. The red coats were playing our favorite American air. It was a thrilling surprise, which falling upon the already excited multitude, kindled a very frenzy of enthusiasm. The audience and chorus rose en masse, and with waving of hats and handkerchiefs and every form of outcry, showed their delight. It was a tremendous scene; nothing quite equal to it took place again. When at length the Band were permitted to withdraw, they were followed by cheer upon cheer, until the last gleam of the scarlet uniform had disappeared.
